"The result of our unpreparedness was grievous extravagance in outlay to the burried effort to make amends. The result of lack of competence in organization was an unfortunate and avoidable wastefulness. Our people paid willingly, but they paid far more than they ought to have paid.

"We are now under a heavy burden of taxation and this is largely responsible for high costs. There is endeavor to recoup through enhanced prices for the tremendous levies made upon business and the effort to transfer taxes to others results in pyramiding costs.

"Domestically, the first issue is economy and reduction of taxation. How are we to achieve this? Assuredly, we must have improvement in method. Proper budget making is essential, but method is not enough.

"The Republicans in Congress have made an excellent beginning in cutting upward of two billions out of the departmental estimates. But the only way to secure the necessary retrenchment is through the cooperation of department heads. It is a sound instinct of the people at this time to demand a change in administration.

"We need the pruning knife used by those who take office intent upon using it. This is a matter which affects every farm, every shop, every industry, every one who works and feels the pinch of high prices. We can expand governmental functions as necessity may demand later. Now is the time to cut off all expenses not absolutely necessary and reduce the Parts, Sept. 19.—All indications in the Presidential contest point to Prench Presidential Contest be more important to France than his personal elevation to what has been a purely figurehead position. It is evident, however, that the meeting of Parliament on Tuesday will be marked by a tremendous demonstration in favor of M. Millerand, from which only two results are possible, first, agreement by M. Millerand to accept a unanimous election with the right to choose Briand or M. Jonnart as Premier second, swinging of the Millerand fac-tion to Jonnart for President as the cansecond, swinging of the Millerand facdidate holding the closest confidence of the Premier and tried by a long di matic career, including Colonial Governorship and the presidency of the Rep-

Raoul Peret, President of the Chamber of Deputies, is still mentioned, but he lacks M. Millerand's backing, while Leon Bourgeois persists in his refusal, asserting that the presidency of the Council of the Learne of Nations is a higher and the League of Nations is a higher and more effective honor than being the more effective honor than being the Chief Executive of France.

It is understood that the Premier has received assurances from numerous groups in the Chamber of Deputies and the Schate that if a revision of the French constitution is necessary to give to the President of the Republic a wider range of authority in public affairs this will be made. Former President Poincard and former Premier Briand in their writings have asserted that this authority should be accorded.

M. Millerand will read the letter of resignation of President Deschanel to the Chamber of Deputies on Tuesday.

The dress rehearsal for the election at Versailles is to be held on Wednesday in an effort to swing the recalcitrant groups into line for the continuance of the Millerand policy either by himself or by some one willing to accept his clictation. The only opposition to Mil-
